

OTIS

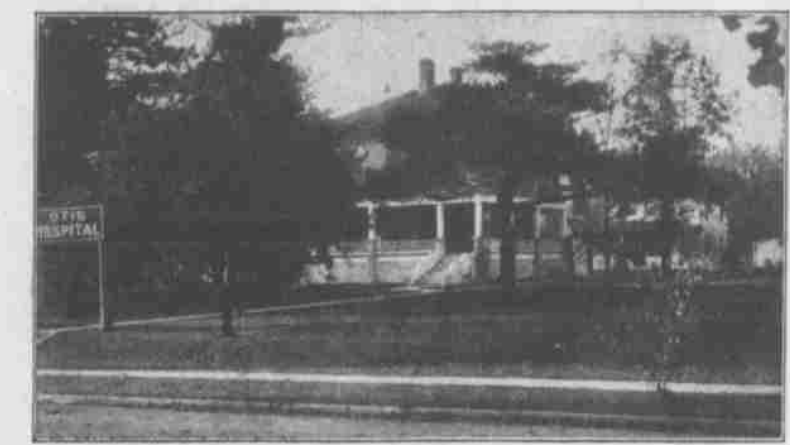

Hospital Has Already Proven Its Worth to Celina

Has Advantage of Splendid Site and Spacious Ground—Filling a Long-Felt Want.

One of the recent additions, and at the same time one of the most valuable acquisitions, to Celina is the new Otis hospital on East Market street, which was founded by Dr. L. M. Otis a couple of months ago.

Dr. Otis, who came here from Michigan a couple of years ago, has become known as one of the foremost practitioners of the town, despite his brief residence here. He is a hustler from the word go, and has gained an enviable reputation.

Several months ago Dr. Otis purchased the Carlin home, formerly the old Broadwell brick home, which sets far back off of the street on East Market, and overlooking the Grand Reservoir. The site was an ideal one for hospital purposes and the doctor proceeded to remodel the brick residence into a nicely equipped hospital building. One of the third floor rooms, in the northeast corner of the building, was properly fitted up as an operating room, while the remaining up-stair rooms were made into pleasant bed rooms for the patients.

Before the building was hardly completed Dr. Otis had several patients in charge and in the few weeks that the place has been ready to care for patients it has been taxed to its capacity. Several very serious operations and a number of minor ones

An Evening With City Dads

The Village Dads met in regular session last Tuesday evening with all members present and Mayor Rice presiding.

The monthly reports of officers and departments were read and approved and the bond of Mayor-elect Seranton approved.

The report of State Examiner Lippincott, of the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices, was read to the council and ordered filed.

The council accepted the report of the Building Committee, recommending the installation of the Moline Vacuum Heating System for heating the city building, and ordered the Mayor and Clerk to sign a contract with Williams Brothers, contractors of Lima, for installing the system for $3390.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church of this city at a meeting last Tuesday evening extended a call to Rev. Alonzo Schaefer, who has filled the local pulpit for the last three Sundays, to come to this city and take charge of the local church. Rev. Schaefer has accepted and will at once move with his wife to this city from Findlay, where he has been staying since coming to Ohio from the East.

Farlen Otto, the fourteen days old child of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stevenson, East Market street, died early yesterday morning following a few days illness of indigestion. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the home, with Rev. C. S. Johnson in charge.

WAR PRISON CAMP LIFE

Freda Teherkoff, a brilliant woman journalist of Russian birth, has written a special article on the treatment of German interned prisoners in English camps, following an interview with one of the prisoners. We publish it by special arrangement in this issue of the Democrat as an interesting war sidelight.

John Donovan, giving his home as Trenton, New Jersey, who was arrested here last July on a charge of burglarizing a box car in the Lake Erie freight yards in this city, and who was later indicted for burglary, entered a plea of guilty when his case came up for trial before Common Pleas Judge Miller yesterday afternoon, and was sentenced to the court to the Ohio Penitentiary for an indeterminate period and to pay the costs of the prosecution. He will likely be taken to Columbus by Sheriff Pumphrey this afternoon or to-morrow.

Joe Depweg, the South Main street saloon man, narrowly escaped injuries last Saturday night when he was struck by an unknown motorcyclist in front of his place of business. The motorcyclist, who was just turning around in the street on his bicycle, when hit. The bicycle was completely demolished, but luckily Joe escaped with but a few scratches. The rider of the machine did not stop.

Another letter from Dr. C. W. Mackey tells of the success with which he and his party of hunters are meeting in the Quebec forests near Woburn. The letter follows:

Woburn, Quebec, Nov. 2, 1915.
"At the last writing Monday noon we had only one deer. The same evening William Journey killed a doe. Today he killed deer No. 2—a fawn—no doubt the fawn of the doe killed last night as it was in the immediate neighborhood. This forenoon Jason Frymoyer killed a buck—deer No. 3. Chas. Cinter also shot the same deer after Frymoyer had hit it.

"Dan Lehniger has three bear traps set. The bear sign in this territory is plentiful. On the ridges where the beech trees grow you can see by the marks of their claws in the bark that they have climbed nearly every tree after the beech nuts. This country is just full of red raspberries and the bears like the berries. We can tell as soon as snow comes whether they have hibernated yet or not.

"The weather here has been very warm. Today, though, it is colder and a bit a little snow.

"Wednesday morning—about an inch and a half of snow on the ground now and still snowing slowly. The snow is hanging on the bushes and would make a man some wet to hunt now, but the boys are out after the game anyway.

COURT MATTERS

And Darke County Must Pay Its Portion on Ditch Work and Cost of Litigation.

A Columbus special of the 9th to the Cincinnati Enquirer, approved residents of this county of an important ruling of the Supreme Court of the State, which will net the County Treasury over $12,000 and at the same time cost the Treasury of Darke County that amount in judgment and over $500 more in costs. The dispatch reads:

In a decision affirming the decree of the Mercer County Court of Appeals the Supreme Court held that after having agreed to arbitration in a joint county ditch matter it was not proper to raise the question of the constitutionality of the law under which the improvement was made.

In the absence of collusion, fraud, irregularity or misconduct, the Court says, the act of the Joint Board of Awards must stand. The suit was by the Board of County Commissioners of Mercer County against the Board of County Commissioners of Darke County for $12,000.30. The Mercer County Common Pleas Court attempted to hold the law to be unconstitutional, but its decision was reversed.

We give below a brief review of the case, which had its beginning in Probate Judge Dugan's court in this county in 1911:

On November 15, 1910 J. H. Leugers filed a petition with the local board of commissioners for the improvement of a ditch in Granville and Recovery townships, in the south part of the county, near the Darke County line which became known as the Blair Branch and Vanhook ditch improvements. The proposed improvements entered into the Walsh and the matter was generally referred to as the Walsh ditch improvement. The Commissioners found in favor of the improvement on December 13 and the contract for the work was later on let to Chapman Bros. for the sum of $25,000.

The ditch was the outlet for the drainage of a number of acres of land across the county line in Darke which was the beginning of the suit which ended in the Supreme Court last Tuesday.

Coming to the fact that Darke county had drained into the ditch the local board of commissioners called a meeting with the Darke county board on March 5, 1911, to determine how much should be paid by Darke county to Mercer county for the use, benefit and burden of such outlet.

The joint boards held several meetings but were unable to agree upon an amount. The matter was then taken to court by a petition filed before Ex-Procer Judge P. F. Dugan, praying for the appointment of disinterested freeholders by the probate courts of the respective counties, to estimate the amount to be paid by Darke county.

The petition of the Mercer county board alleged that the proposed ditch would drain about 12,256 acres of land in this county and about 21,900 acres in Darke county. Judge Dugan appointed Frank Munzinger, of Van Wert county, while the Darke County court appointed A. J. Hamilton, of Preble county, and Jacob Katherman, of Miami county, as the arbitrators to fix the amount in dispute.

The committee found that the ditch drained 12,261 acres of Darke county land, and 12,532 acres of Mercer county land, and assessed the amount to be paid Mercer County at $12,308.30.

Darke county objected to the assessment and filed a motion to set it aside, raising the question that the probate court had no jurisdiction. Judge Dugan overruled the motion, and the Darke county board took the case to the Common Pleas Court. Here Judge Layton in May, 1913, reversed the judgment of the Probate Court, holding that the act of the General Assembly governing the matter was unconstitutional. The local Commissioners, through the advice of their counsel, Prosecuting Attorney John G. Romer, and his assistants, Attorneys J. D. Johnson and J. W. Loree, then carried the case to the Court of Appeals.

This tribunal in September, 1914, found error in the decision of the Common Pleas Judge Layton, found no error in the records of Probate Judge Dugan and ordered that the judgment of the probate court be approved.

The Darke county board at once carried the case to the Supreme court, with the result that the highest tribunal sustains Probate Judge Dugan and places an obligation of $12,308.30 upon Darke county, besides the costs which have accumulated in the different courts, and which will amount to over $500.

Sixty-five guests assembled at the George Baxter home in this city Wednesday to honor the 100th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Margaret Ann Rogers, undoubtedly the oldest resident of this section of the state. Mrs. Rogers was born in New York City, November 10, 1815. Her parents died when she was quite young, leaving a large family, whom were compelled to seek homes among strangers. She was the mother of six children, only one of whom survives. For the past seventeen years Grandma Rogers, as she is known to neighbors and friends, has been totally blind.

A dispatch of Nov. 6 to the Denver Colorado Post from Kemmerer, Wyoming, has the following to say of a former Celina man, well known to residents of this city:

C. E. Daley, cashier of the Marlinton State bank, who was shot by Daniel R. Crafton a few days ago, is dead of his wounds. Crafton is under arrest. Daley and other friends of Crafton followed him to his home and were giving him a charivari, supposing Crafton had been married. Repeated warning failed to have any effect on the crowd and the crowd threatened to shoot into the crowd if the fun-makers did not leave him. As they remained, Crafton fired through the low part of the door. The bullet struck Daley, Crafton's best friend, in the abdomen. Crafton is prostrated over the affair.

The ladies aid society of the M. E. Church will be entertained this afternoon at the church parlors with Mesdames Joanna Weist, Jesse Meyers and J. S. Flinders as hostesses.

Mrs. Leo Courtwright and baby, of Dayton, who returned home last week, visited with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Courtwright.

HIGHWAYS

And Boulevards Still Too Narrow and Accidents Almost Too Frequent to Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorsten, of Chickasaw, had a harrowing and miraculous escape from fatal injuries last Sunday evening about seven o'clock, when a buggy in which they were riding was struck by an automobile, driven by Henry Moorman, of near Coldwater.

The Dorstens were on their way home from this city, where they had spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boskin. When a couple of miles south of town on the reservoir bank road their buggy was struck by the Moorman car. Mr. Moorman was driving without lights and it seems did not see the buggy until too late to avoid hitting it. Mr. Dorsten, who was driving turned to the side of the cement pavement, but could not get over far enough to avoid being hit. The buggy was demolished, the seat being completely torn off, the axle bent and the support rods underneath the buggy twisted and broken. Mrs. Dorsten was thrown to the side of the road and rolled partly down the west side embankment. She received severe bruises and a couple of ugly cuts, but luckily escaped serious injuries. Mr. Dorsten escaped unhurt. The automobile was only slightly damaged.

A new 1916 six-cylinder Studebaker, owned by Fred Schlenker, the South Main street restaurant man, of this city, and driven by his son, Earl, collided with a Ford, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Culbertson, of Ridgeville, Ind., last Sunday afternoon, on a bridge, near the Ira Wagner farm, four miles north of this city.

The Studebaker car was occupied by young Schlenker, Albert Betzel and Kahle McComb and the Misses Ada Costes, Mae Stemen and Elizabeth Miller, all of this city, and the Ford by Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson, the latter driving. Luckily, none of the occupants were injured, although the impact of the two cars turned the Ford completely around, but it did not turn over. Both cars were considerably damaged.

The Culbertson family claim that Mr. Culbertson admitted his wife was to blame for the accident as she was just learning to drive. The two cars neared the bridge at the same time. Mrs. Culbertson pulled to one side of the road and slowed down, so Mr. Schlenker asserts and he thought she intended for him to take the bridge first and he continued across. She however turned her car into the road and the two machines met head on. The Schlenker car was driven back to this city and the damaged Ford hauled back to Rockford for repairs.

Eugene, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Heffner, was struck by an automobile driven by Kenneth Hall at noon Sunday, the rear wheel of the machine running over the boy's chest. He was not seriously injured, which seems almost miraculous, as the car was a five passenger Overland weighing over 5000 pounds.—P. Recovery Tribune-Journal.

LAST DAY FOR CANDIDATES
All candidates for offices whose names were printed on the ballots at the last election must file their names with the board of elections on or before November 12.

In addition to all regular candidates, successful or unsuccessful, it is necessary for any person who was elected to office by having his name written on a petition, to also file a statement. The fact that no money was expended does not excuse any one from making a statement.

Statement blanks can be had at this office.
